

Incredibly rare baby bird fossil found!

One of the smallest bird fossils has been discovered by scientists. It is thought the bird lived around 130 million years ago and belonged to a group of birds that shared the planet with the dinosaurs!

Fossils of birds from this time period are very unusual, with baby fossils seen as incredibly rare. It is thought that the discovery will give an overview into the lives of the birds that lived between 250 and 66 million years ago!

The bird is thought to have had teeth and clawed fingers on each wing and looked a lot like modern day birds of today.

Pictured: What the bird might have looked like.

Thousands left without water after snow melts

Pictured: Bottled water many have been reliant on.

Many people across the south-east and south-west of the UK have faced further issues following heavy snow fall, with thousands of houses having their water cut off completely. Water suppliers said the speed in which the heavy snow melted and the temperatures increased led to burst water mains and leaks.

About 13,000 homes went without water in Kent and Sussex while thousands of properties in Wales and 10,000 homes in London also had no water supply early last week. Parts of the Midlands and Scotland were also affected by intermittent supply.

Energy drinks banned for under 16s

Pictured: Typical energy drink.

Sales of energy drinks to children under 16 have been banned in most supermarkets because of worries about high levels of sugar and caffeine. Supermarkets including Asda, Waitrose, Tesco and the Co-op are banning the drinks as is the pharmacy chain Boots.

Shops will limit sales of energy drinks with high levels of caffeine per litre to under-16s from March 26th.

Do you think this is a good idea? Let us know!

The return of Peter the Picture News bear!

Pictured: Peter in Marbella!

Has Peter visited your school? Let us know what he's been up to! Email or post your photos and stories using our contact details below.

Peter in Birmingham, with Dragon's Den star Theo Paphitis.

Peter the Picture News bear is back, and he's had a busy couple of weeks! Whilst most people in the UK have been battling with snow and sub-zero temperatures, Peter enjoyed a sunny break with his friends in Spain at the British International School in Marbella! He also managed to squeeze in a business meeting in Birmingham where he had his picture taken with former Dragon's Den star Theo Paphitis!

YOUR COMMENTS

Email: help@picture-news.co.uk

or post to: Picture House, Hungate, Eavestone, North Yorks, HG4 3EX